Do not issue these coupons without the retail store's permission. These coupons are for use at retail locations only.

These coupons are a great way to convert demos and games run at a retail store into sales at that location. Before issuing these coupons, be sure to get permission from the retail store management. With their permission, print this page and cut out the individual coupons. Issue one coupon to each event participant at the end of your activity. Print as many pages as appropriate.

These coupons are a great tool for converting demos and games run at your location into sales at your store. They're optional and to be used entirely at your discretion.

For best results, have a stock of introductory and core product for the games being demoed or played, and encourage players to apply this coupon to a purchase.

If you choose to accept them, you bear the cost of the discount.
